No. 6. This is a machine got up on an entirely new principle, different from anything ever before offered to the publish and we confidently assert that for family use it has not an equal. It is very tight and tasty, runs very rapidly, is almost noiseless in its operation, and uses a stratour vergue. It is so arranged as to be utterly impossible for it to miss stitches. It has a tension on bout sides, and carries a large supply of thread on the under speot. The motions are gained by two small cranks that run without perceptible noise. The two threads are worked in such a manner as never to pull both at the same time, and consequently, little linbie to break. The seam is very classic and the thread does not break in washing, it will do coarse work better than any chesp machine now to masset; as it uses silk, costoo, or linsen with equal facility.
